came up the little meadow...she clutching the usual big bag ... a sight that gave me a sense of drear & seemed to destroy TIME ...

I am always polite with her & try to turn the tremendous sense of drear she brings into cheer ... going forward ... sailing on ...

She produced the cake in the tin she had cooked it in & said

“ TEA TEA ... I AM GASPING... No show me the kettle ... I have my own things ... I do not wish to touch your things ... YOU DO NOT WORK ... you need to keep your things for yourself ...”

She began a tale of being poor & how she had looked around her cupboard & wondered how to make a cake ... yes some cocoa left ... some flour some butter from her ration ... yes an egg was needed...
she went to the corner shop to buy 2 eggs for she did not eat eggs herself ...

SHE BEGAN URGING ME TO CUT A BIG PIECE OFF & to

“ EAT IT ... EAT IT NOW - TUCK IN ! YOU ARE TOO THIN... ” I began to wonder if this was all that there was to any lives ... drear & more drear ...even the spring afternoon seemed to become grey landscapes ...

I wanted to hop a bus into Colchester ... walk the ancient town, hide in a corner of the museums ... find a bargain book in Eld Lane in one of the tin baths outside the shops ... BUT I AM ALWAYS POLITE TO HER & try to cheer her ...

A POISONED CAKE ... I threw the flat cake in the hedge when she had gone down the lane ... & I would not walk down the lane with her to the bus stop quite a long way descending to the Colchester Road ... past the Farm ... I did not wish to return along the lane alone ...

Two days later my pet thrush that hopped in the caravan in the mornings was dead ... & after that birds & hedge animals were found dead ... the old dog at the farm was sick & died after a few weeks... a Vet was called ... he found HEROIN he said in the food chain of the animals ... there may have been something else too
