1937 Summer - Saint George ANDRE has learned some of my Quaker phrases & JOJoh&

Jo... learned to say has

we will go shopping...Round-the-Town... for Foul Winter doth come

This is spoken with careful deliberation when she does not want to make craftwork one rainy afternoon & we have waved him Andre bec oming

Saint George
out into Clacton-on-sea with an umbrella to learn from his new friends & acquaintances
& we know he loves to prowl his tall delicate form about exploring HOPE & humankind-
So we girls, young women, of the globe took umbrellas & mackintoshes

& went forth, explore wee...`

I hath in mind certain fishy-pastes & can give Granny Gordon one or two tiny jars for her store cupboard & one for us at the old little house on the Old Road to be put away for winter toast teas round the fire on foul darkening afternoons when the Fog Horn doth moan. Oh so lonely that Fog Horn is his moan...I see it as an old bearded thin man who doth MOAN out at sea with cruel cold waves mounting as dark night fall`th...

FOUL WINTER DOTH COME when you live in East Anglia - & we shall hear the Wild Wind heaving the grey-green SEAS into cottage & small house size waves-

Then my Father Frederick John RANSOM & I & his friends we sometimes put on mackintoshes & go for an exciting blow-

`macs we doth put on-& venture for a blow`

Then hurry back thru' the town late end of afternoon...see women in stout overcoats fitted felt hat & scarf pushing a pram with babe & perhaps two children one collected from school one sitting on pram holding tightly the pram hood or handle bar...shopping bag attached...They may come to buy new shoes - always made an exciting purchase by the shop assistants who kindly fuss to see the fit is exactly right with room for growth -

Clacton Town women who still look as in the Lowry paintings (... Granny Gordon's Manchester families know him by sight & some to have a few words with...so they bought a painting )

The end of the day shoppers they perhaps now look to some supper things & buy eggs-kippers-other fishes to bake with potatoes mashed to a pie... & celery sticks long & white with some yellow curly leaves that I like to nibble too...Celery fresh pulled from the winter earth with smell of soot...will soon be washed & in a glass celery vase that everybody has on the table- Perhaps chumpie chops & sausages are bought for the men may come from hard work ...

I love to see the last swirl of shoppers as its nearly coming 6.30 pm & know they go home to a warm fire a wireless ... & no fear of break-ins by Earls Lindsaybuggarhs & scum - A rough sea can often be heard in the town as the waves dash against the Pier & promenade...& shop-keepers & staff in aprons or long overalls bid us good night & say wisely " ... it may be a FOUL NIGHT... best hurry home, keep a good fire...make a pot of soup for 9 o'clock before you turn in...good cup of cocoa for the children last thing...see them through the night...God Bless..."

FOUL WINTER DOTH COME -

Every one crosses themselves for POOR SOULS AT SEA...the Titanic sinking is only a short time ago...we talk of it after High Mass on Sundays & the churches commemorate the terrible sinking day....

Several languages are spoke Clacton-on-Sea Essex into Suffolk Norfolk at the SEAS EDGES... German Italian French & even some Welsh- Summer workers have since late 19th century over the years made a marriage or return to a summer job & lingering into October find a job in London or Norwich stay a winter- some do stay with WAR coming...

1938 - In 1937 we are advised to not speak the Germanic tongue by my father`s Army comrades I think... he goes up for meetings so they will be ready for a War
But the Lindsaybuggarhs have shouted something

This food is good for my frame`...

Shell fish was very good to collect & eat in the 19th century at Clacton-on-sea - Many people came for holidays because of the shell fishes they could collect & have for picnics & take to their Lodgings for tea -
As the Neolithic families did... ..they who have our town name Clacton...CLACTONIAN MAN & his tribe...

1937 - I tell Josette & ANDRE these things...& it is he who GRUNTS...& I learn it...You agree or ponder a matter & you GRUNT perhaps once or two or three times...you consider...

I try tell Jo & Andre a lot of comforting things...of the heimat the household...& he says things in French telling her exactly what I say.
And he tells me when my Quaker & modern speech gets rather tangled up what I mean...I speak both for I am supposed to learn English the modern way as well...perhaps for the School Nuns of Saint Clare & my writing books...?

1937 Summer - Jo&Joh understands the SEAS edges its moods & she will be a good wife to Saint George- Andre of France & Gaul/

1944 Ben Britten has added Peter Grimes to our Seashores...SEA SOUNDS hold memories ...

1944 - We hath heard at The Pathfields School Clacton-on-sea played on piano by Raymond Salt our Teacher/Royal College of Music the SEA music from PETER GRIMES`... Mr Salt says “ Ben Britten...

he could write something to equal Debussy’s LA MER...but I think he won` t... he is into Opera now ...”

Mr Salt has taken the music students over to Aldeburgh to meet the Composer. Raymond Salt 23 years old is unofficially engaged to Jean Page in the class 13 years old. She is a replica of the painting of Queen Christina of Sweden...she is a musician too... they have an aesthetic ethereal outlook & are rather holy people. Neat & tidy too...& have music gatherings & performances all over East Anglia...

1945 onwards - ANDRE MALRAUX will come to know all these people teaching in the schools & many young people in the classrooms... He
