Of the Months -

12 sonnets - Folgore da

For July, in Siena, by the willow-tree,

I give you barrels of white Tuscan wine

In ice far down your cellars stored supine ;

And morn and eve to eat in company

Of those vast jellies dear to you and me;

Of partridges and youngling pheasants sweet,

Boiled capons, sovereign kids; and let their treat

Be veal and garlic, with whom these agree.

Let time slip by, till by and by, all day;

And never swelter through the heat at all,

But move at ease at home, sound, cool, and gay;

And wear sweet-coloured robes that lightly fall;

And keep your tables set in fresh array,

Not coaxing spleen to be your seneschal.

Translated by Dante Gabriel Rossetti
